2. State Teen Directors will sit in on interviews of all Teen Queen and Teen King contestants to give contestants a feeling of a friend in the room, and to see that inappropriate questions are not asked by any judge. In case a judge does ask a question about religion, military issues, race or politics, the State Teen Director will request they ask a different question on behalf of the contestant.
3. After the judges have added contestant scores, Teen Directors will re-add to verify scores.
If there is a discrepancy, at least on judge and Teen Directors will re-add together.
4. If a lull in activities occurs, Teen Directors will take judges to the judge's trailer or other place for a beverage and to relax for a few minutes.
5. The State Teen Directors will give the new Teen Queen and Teen King, as well as first runners-up a copy of their duties following the end of the pageant.
